Lufthansa Strike Action

Lufthansa, Germany's biggest airline, face a major strike by its ground and cabin crews next week after union members voted overwhelmingly to support a massive walkout. This action follows more limited disruption that occurred this week. At this stage we do not know how long this strike will last and what impact this may have on our service.

Please be advised that this strike only affects passenger travel and only freight carried on passenger aircraft as opposed to freighters. However, it could also affect road travel around the big airports in Berlin, Dusseldorf, Cologne, Frankfurt and Munich so do expect delays in these areas.

GKN Freight Services will keep you informed of any further developments. In the meantime, please feel free to contact us with any questions or concerns.
