Update – Fishermen Strike in France

French fishermen have voted to continue to blockade several ports and fuel depots for two more days in protest at fishing quotas and rising diesel costs, even though a government offer of fuel aid persuaded some fishermen to go back to work after more than a week of action.

The decision was taken by fishing crews from Channel ports including Calais, Dunkirk, Dieppe and Boulogne. These blockades may therefore result in delaying transport between France and the UK.

Please be assured that we shall do all possible to minimize disruption and possible delays.
